OUTSTANDING SELECTION OF THE CHOICEST LARGE FLOWERED GLADIOLI

Select a sunny location away from the roots of shrubs and trees; plant 4 to 6 inches deep and 4 to 6 inches apart in a well worked trench in staggered rows. Be sure to keep well watered at all times, also keep the soil loose.

Fall fertilizing of the ground selected for Gladioli with well rotted cowmanure and coarse bonemeal is advisable, leaving the ground rough. In case this was not done, either cowmanure or a well balanced fertilizer should be applied and worked into the soil before planting. At the time of bud forming, a light application of ammonium sulphate after a heavy rain and before cultivating, will bring out the color and increase the size of the florets and length of spikes.

Although our Gladioli are guaranteed to be free from thrips, these insects can be easily transmitted from elsewhere. It is thereby advisable to watch for them when plants are about 3 inches tall and if found, spray weekly with D. D. T.; one pound to 100 gallons of water.

We have listed the approximate flowering season of each variety as follows:

- E Early, under 70 days from planting.
- EM Early midseason, from 70—80 days.
- M Midseason, from 80—90 days.
- LM Late midseason, over 90 days from planting.

PRIZE WINNING DAHLIAS

Any type of soil can be made suitable to grow good Dahlias and one never goes wrong in adding humus and fine sand to insure proper drainage and keep the soil porous. A complete fertilizer, preferably 2-10-6 (nitrogen-phosphate-potash) applied and worked in after planting will be sufficient.

Before planting the ground should be spaded well; plant four inches deep and 4 feet apart and a sturdy stake should be put in at the same time.

SMALL DECORATIVE OR BABY GLADIOLI – The Little People Out Of Fairyland

For those who are inclined to consider Gladioli stiff and ungraceful, here is a type so dainty, so lovely in its purity of coloring and in the ruffled and frilled florets, hardly known and most deserving of the increasing popularity amongst fanciers.

The fact is that these small decorative Gladioli have kept pace with the new exhibition varieties in the great advancement, that has been made, in improving this flower over the last decade.

The individual florets from 1 to 2 inches in diameter are gracefully placed on wiry spikes of from 15 to 30 inches, in bulk of bloom considerably less than that of the large varieties, perhaps only one eighth to one fifth as much.

The Baby Gladioli are exceptionally suitable for table decorations, for accent points in low flower arrangement, a small vase and can be grown anywhere in the garden.

The names of the various varieties are well chosen and extremely descriptive; they seem to belong to the world of the "little people" of Fairyland and their little faces are as expressive as their names.

The varieties listed below are the best; they are strong growers and rapid increasers. Plant two inches deep and do not use fertilizer.

There is really no trick to growing these little fellows; they are more disease resisting and productive than the large types.

The demand for these Baby Gladioli was so great last year, that we had to disappoint many clients and return their checks. Order now, before our limited supply of excellent quality stock is exhausted.
